3. The attorney must have full authority to present and conclude all matters involved in the case.

(D) The primary purpose of the pretrial conference shall be to achieve an amicable settlement of the controversy in suit. If the court concludes that the prospect of settlement does not warrant further court supervised negotiations, then the court shall act on any other matters which come before it at that time and efforts shall be made to narrow legal issues, to reach stipulations as to facts in controversy and, in general, to shorten the time and expense of trial. The court may enter a pretrial order to become part of the record of the case embracing all stipulations, admissions and other matters which have come before it. The court shall at that time determine whether or not trial briefs should be submitted and shall fix a date when they are to be filed. Subject to the provisions for arbitration hereinafter provided, the court shall also stipulate in writing whether the case shall be referred to arbitration.

(E) After the pretrial conference, counsel may engage in further discovery proceedings, provided they do not result in delay of trial of the case. In the event counsel request discovery proceedings that would cause a delay of trial, the right to such discovery shall be determined by the court. The court, however, reserves the right to set the case for trial before the completion of any further discovery and without additional pretrials.

(G) Any judge presiding at a pretrial conference shall have the authority:

1. To dismiss an action for want of prosecution on motion of defendant upon failure of plaintiff or his counsel to appear in person at any pretrial conference.
